

Mountain Lake PBS-TV Presentations about Rebecca Kelly
serving Vermont, Montreal, the Adirondacks

Aired	Program Title	Description		Recently Aired
5/26/20	Paul Larson, Spotlight Artists & Covid  6:41	Choreographer Rebecca Kelly's creativity flourishes during the pandemic. Choreographer Rebecca Kelly says the pandemic won't halt her creative energy, even during the months when she can't work with her dancers. She's continued a project she began in her 20s, one she can do by herself.		5/26/20  https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=kZ0Cb0u6Gps&amp;t=4s
9/29/17	Paul Larson, Spotlight Adirondack Elemental - Rebecca Kelly Dancers. 8:14 Mountain Lake Journal	Choreographer Rebecca Kelly invites her New York City dancers to Lake Placid every summer, often to present Adirondack audiences with a ballet inspired by the natural beauty of the region. Kelly, however, says her dances come with a warning. She reminds us that scientists say we could lose our natural wonders, so we should do what we can to preserve them. The dances in her Adirondack Elemental Suite include "Waters," "Earth" and "Snow." Paul Larson's Spotlight segment explores how the Adirondack environment affects the dancers, as they view natural parts of New York State they have never seen before.	  	9/29/17  https://video.mountainlake.org/video/adirondack-environmental-dance-ngbbdk/
7/19/15	Paul Larson, Art Express - Rebecca Kelly Ballet - Environmental Dance 10:12	 Choreographer Rebecca Kelly tackles environmental issues with the movement of her dancers. "Art Express" celebrates the visual and performing arts. Producer Paul Larson writes and hosts the program. "Art Express" is a Mountain Lake PBS production. (Apayaana, Air, Wilderness Suite)		7/19/15
4/17/12	Paul Larson Spotlight airs on Mountain Lake Journal Extra Thursday night at 8:30 on Mountain Lake PBS.	Most ballet dancers tread lightly on the stage, but Rebecca Kelly's dancers advocate treading lightly on the earth! In time for Earth Day, the Spotlight shines on the Manhattan-based choreographer, who uses dance to raise awareness about environmental issues. Kelly's message to her audience: Reduce your carbon footprint on the earth if you want to help reduce climate change. Photo by Todd Bissonette.		2012  http://video.mountainlake.org/video/2225445742/
2005	Art Express	New York City choreographer Rebecca Kelly spends her summers in the Adirondacks of northern New York State. Many of the ballets she choreographs relate to the pristine environment and beauty that surrounds her upstate. "Air" is a ballet based on the crisp, clean air in the mountainous region. It is a collaboration between the choreographer and Martha Gallagher, the		Repeated: 2/14/17 "Art Express" Classic, Rebecca Kelly Ballet Dancers https://mountainlake.org/rebec

	8:06  MARATHA GALLAGHER The Adirondack Harper  REBECCA KELLY Choreographer	Adirondack Harper. Paul Larson produced this piece for "Art Express" in 2005	ca-kelly-ballet-dancers/
--	--	---	---